This is at the discretion of the inspecting personnel, extension staff and other designated agents.
2. Health Inspection requirements for each species are as follows:
 - a. Small Animals: All rabbits, cavies and poultry will be inspected upon their arrival at the Adams County Fair during their designated arrival times (see Department info). Cats and dogs must have proven vaccinations through the use of their 4-H E-Records.

The decision of the veterinarian will be final. All animals on the grounds are subject to re-examination by veterinarians at any time during the fair.
3. If a market animal becomes sick after it has arrived at the Adams County Fairgrounds, the owner of the animal (or parent, superintendent, or Extension Agent) must contact a licensed veterinarian for treatment of that animal. If the veterinarian diagnosis is that the illness is not a contagious or communicable disease, it may remain on grounds and be exhibited under the approval of the veterinarian. If the animal needs medication the veterinarian will take full responsibility for the animal's treatment. If the animal is in the Junior Market Sale and the withdrawal time exceeds the slaughter time of that species, the youth must take the animal home and then slaughter the animal after the Veterinarian Patient Client Relationship (VPCR) has been fulfilled.
